How to Use This Bundle

Everything here is A4 and print-ready. Print onto whatever you have — plain paper is perfect for collage and journalling, and a heavier card suits anything you plan to cut, fold and stand up.

On the cut-and-fold templates the line language is always the same:
a solid line means cut, a dashed line means fold towards you,
and a dotted line means fold away from you.

Score every fold before you make it — run a dry pen or a bone folder along the line against a ruler. It is the one step that turns a good print into a crisp finished thing.

The seamless papers tile in every direction, so print as many as you like and they will always match edge to edge.

These pages are for your own creative use, and for anything you make and sell by hand. Please don't resell or share the files themselves.

*Cut along the solid line. Score and fold along every dashed line.
Fold the two side flaps in, then the lower flap up over them and glue.
The upper flap folds down last to close.*
