Matchbox Drawers & Paper Cones

A drawer template, a cone template and 24 number seals

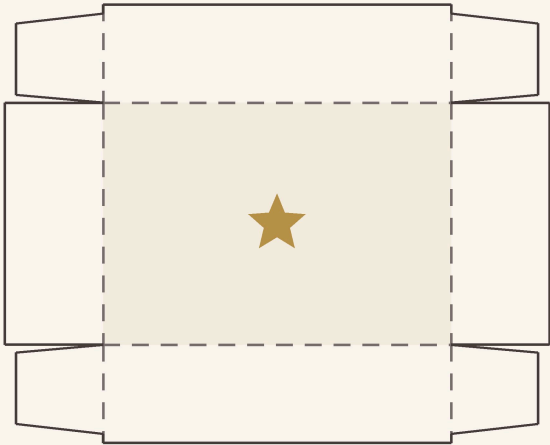

Print, cut, fold and fill: one little surprise for every day of December.

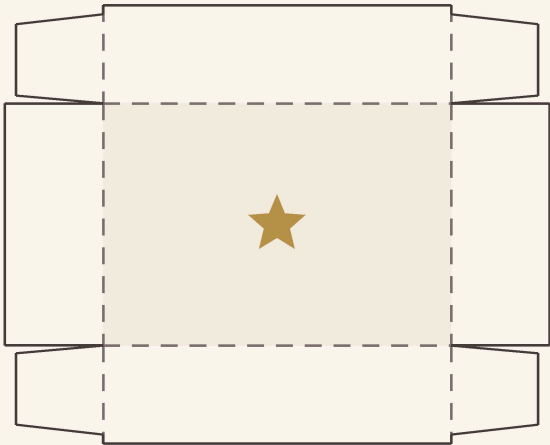

Matchbox Drawer Template

Two little drawers per sheet: cut on the solid lines, fold on the dashed lines. The patterned strip wraps round the tray as its sleeve. Print as many sheets as you need drawers.

Paper Cone Template

Two cones per sheet. Cut round the outside, score the dashed line, roll the cone and glue the tab inside. Punch the two little circles for a ribbon hanger.

24 Number Seals

One seal for each day. Cut them out with scissors or a 1-inch circle punch and glue one to the front of each drawer or cone.

How to Make Them

Matchbox drawers

1. Print on 160 to 220gsm card at 100% (Actual Size).
2. Cut out the tray, fold up all four walls and glue the little tabs inside the short ends.
3. Cut the patterned sleeve, fold it on the dashed lines and glue the tab to make a tube.
4. Slide the tray in. Glue a number seal on the sleeve front.
5. Stack them into a chest, line them along a shelf or glue them to a board.

Paper cones

1. Print on 120 to 160gsm paper or thin card.
2. Cut round the outside and score the dashed line with a ruler.
3. Roll it into a cone and glue the tab on the inside, holding it for a minute.
4. Glue a number seal on the front and punch the two small circles.
5. Thread ribbon through the holes and hang it from a branch or a string.

Fill each one with something small: a sweet, a tiny note, a sticker, a button or a little paper scroll. You need 24 altogether, so print the drawer sheet twelve times or the cone sheet twelve times, or mix the two.

Want papers to wrap them in?

Cover your drawers and cones in red and gold. My Victorian Christmas junk journal kit has 71 printable pages, including red and gold patterned papers, matching envelopes, tags, pockets and festive ephemera, and they suit these templates perfectly.
